Mall project unveiled

City officials enthusiastic about proposal

Gov. Mike Leavitt and top regional business and government officials met Friday with a California developer who unveiled a project which is sure to bring good news for area shoppers and merchants

Plans for a new 80-acre shopping mall, to be constructed within the next three years near the junction of I-15 and University Avenue, were presented by developer Robert Joshi, who within the last two months has produced a package which is quickly gaining corporate and governmental support.

Honors students graduate faster

By ZOE CABANISS Universe Staff Writer

While graduating with University Honors may help you get a job or be accepted to a graduate school, BYU students and administrators say these are only secondary bene-

"It does have an effect on employment and graduate school decisions, but I would consider these to be secondary advantages," said Harold Miller, BYU's dean of General and Honors Education.

"Primary advantages would include the quality and nature of a student's contact with instructors," Miller said.

He said Honors students tend to raduate a semester and a half faster than other students.

Also, Honors plays a role in graduate admissions because of graduate schools' long-standing acquaintance with the Honors tradition.

He said being an Honors student means forming a close relationship with a member of the faculty. The friendship and interdependence network shared among those in the Honors program are other advan-

Karen Williams, 19, a junior from Fruit Heights majoring in humanities, said she would consider graduating with Honors if it weren't for the GPA requirement.

"A lot of people don't do it because of the thesis," Williams said, "but for me it's my grades. I've never seriously worried about grades.

Clinton's Bosnia plan lacks support

PARIS — Hesitant European allies withheld approval of President Clinton's strategy to use force in Bosnia on Monday, pushing in the meantime for peacekeeping troops to oversee the agreement signed Sunday by Bosnian Serbs.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher said he was skeptical that the peace agreement would hold up. A senior U.S. official on the trip said the United States would support the plan if the Serbs did follow through.

The United States might commit about 2,000 troops as part of a first phase, diplomatic sources said.

His task was shaping up as a test of the Clinton administration's powers of persuasion as well as of the strength of the transatlantic alliance. Christopher left Britain without specific endorsement of either air strikes against Serb artillery sites or the lifting of a weapons embargo that has hampered outgunned Muslims in Bosnia-Herzegovina. Prime Minister John Major is concerned that the war could be expanded if more weapons reach Bosnia.

Christopher found the French government in a dissonant mood. Foreign Minister Alain Juppe has described the division of tasks in the U.S. strategy as unacceptable.

Women's apparel plays role in conflict

JERUSALEM — "Can I help you, ladies?" Mansour Shawa asked the Palestinian women waiting outside his home. In response, one of them lifted her skirt, pulled out a pistol and pointed it at Shawa. The others stormed into Shawa's West Bank house and arrested five suspected Palestinian militants.

The women, it turned out, were male Israeli soldiers, taking advantage of social mores in which women are not seen as combatants and can move around freely.

Cloak-and-dagger tactics have taken a new twist in the Israeli-Arab conflict. Israelis sometimes don female dress to stalk Palestinians, and Palestinians do the same to elude roadblocks or approach assassination

The traditional Arab women's dress is an ideal costume. The long, loose dress can hide hefty men and heavy weapons.

Space shuttle carries German robot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The 10-day mission aboard the shuttle Columbia will end Thursday at the Kennedy Space Center. Germany has spent $570 million on this mission, which features two German astronauts and several German experiments.

German astronaut Hans Schlegel put an experimental robot called Rotex through more paces, commanding it by remote control to grip and move small cubes and other objects. The 21/2-foot-long metal arm also is being commanded from the German science control center.

Schlegel said Rotex sometimes responds right away to his commands, but other times there is a delay. The astronauts had to bail out Rotex earlier in the flight when its joints became stuck; a computer software change solved the problem.

More of the 240 young fish and 240 tadpoles involved in experiments aboard Columbia are dying. "It's a pity," said German payload official Walter Brungs.

"The explanation might be that due to the heavy movements the animals might have hurt themselves and if one is sick, then all the others will die later on within this tank."

Live by faith, grace says LDS Church leader

By MELISSA BEAN Universe Staff Writer

God's grace is like a shield surrounding each of his children and his glory shines like the sun on those who recognize and love him as a source of grace, said Sister Chieko Okazaki in the closing address of BYU Women's Conference Friday.

Okazaki, first counselor in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints' Relief Society General Presidency, said we live in grace and can live in glory as well when we realize that all grace comes from God. Faith leads to the recognition of grace, she said, and with that recognition comes the understanding that grace is free; a gift.

Okazaki spoke of Mother Theresa, who she said embodies the spirit of Christ, and described her as a person who recognizes the grace of God so fully that she spreads light to all others.

More than 20 years ago Malcolm Muggeridge, a prize-winning British journalist, made a documentary on Mother Theresa's work in the slums of Calcutta. Although at first she was reluctant, Mother Theresa took the opportunity to spread light.

"Now let us do something beautiful for God," she wrote to Muggeridge.

Okazaki said, "Mother Theresa is a pure and powerful witness to the Savior's grace which she perceives as the love of God and which she manifests in her life as a blessing from others.

"Every act of kindness, every generous gesture, every merciful word counts toward increasing the amount of love in the world," said

"Grace is the state in which we live, surrounded by the love of God. Glory comes when we recognize not something we earn or pay for or and acknowlege that love with gratitude and increased love of our own," Okazaki said.

God is glorified when individuals thank him for his goodness. She said most people realize that they recieve God's grace but often they do not feel it in their hearts until they are confronted with and overcome adversity, tragedy or depres-

Times of trial and times of spiritual growth lead individuals to glory, Okazaki said. It is then that they percieve the grace of God and express their gratitiude to him. "When our rising love and joyful gratitude meet the shower of mercy and love from the Savior and from our Heavenly Parents - in that contact is the pure radiance and the brilliant light of glory," said

Without a personal relationship with Jesus Christ and faith in the love of God, individuals are unable to percieve grace, she said.

"Isn't faith the purpose of mortality?" Okazaki asked. She said that through faith individuals can realize that they live in "a world created by love and agency" and that the reality of life is loving Jesus Christ and choosing daily to increase the amount of love in the world.

Okazaki said, "We live in a world of grace, it remains for us to accept and recieve the gift. When we see that and let our hearts respond with others, spreading the sunlight with the increased gratitude and love that are surely and instinctive, we can make it a world of grace

Cougar women win WAC tennis

By KRIS JENSEN Universe Sports Writer

The BYU women's tennis team won the Western Athletic Conference championship Wednesday, while the Cougar men's squad placed fourth.

The BYU women defeated host San Diego State, the No. 1 seed, to clinch the conference title by winning five out of six singles matches.

BYU later lost to Texas, Clemson, and Florida, but the WAC tournament offered an opportunity for a comeback.

"We were well-rested because finals were over," Valentine said.
"We had an extra day to get used to the lower altitude and that was an advantage."

Valentine and her team will now turn their attention to the NCAA Championships May 15 through 20 in Gainesville, Fla.

Malone and Kemp1-1; series heads to SLC

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY - Having stolen one of two games in Seattle, Utah has wrestled the homecourt advantage from the SuperSonics in their first-round NBA playoff series But coach Jerry Sloan takes little comfort from having Games 3 and 4 scheduled for the Delta Center Tuesday and Thursday, respectively. Game 5, if needed, will be in

"The homecourt advantage doesn't mean anything anymore, especially not in this series," Sloan said Monday. The Jazz and Sonics split 2-2 in the regular season, each team winning once on the other's home floor. Utah's 89-85 win in Seattle Sunday, following a 14-point loss in Game 1, was just the latest episode in a seesaw battle for supremacy. "We started on the court excited,"

Sloan said, referring to a 12-1 opening run in Game 2. "But if we're going to be able to compete against this team again, we'll need 48 minutes of defense.

"This team can't win unless everybody plays as well as they can," he added.

That is especially true of Karl matchup with Seattle's Shawn Kemp has been the series' flash

Kemp outscored Malone 29-24 and held a 17-13 rebound edge as the Sonics won Friday's opening game. But Malone ruled in Game 2, scoring 26 points — eight of them in the final six minutes — to Kemp's 13 while tying his nine

Still, Malone refuses to discuss

"I don't want to get into a verbal war," he said. "I'm not thinking about Kemp and I. I'm thinking about this team We're not celebrating. We've got a lot of work to

"My job is to help us win," Malone added. "The only thing I take personally is to get the job done. It's something I'll always do."

Kemp is less reluctant to discuss his counterpart.

"Malone was just very effective in the stretch. He was getting down low, getting the shot or getting fouled," he said.

Mark Eaton, who had eight points in 32 minutes of play despite a tender knee and sprained back, did not practice Monday.

Volunteers Yeltsin defends

MOSCOW — President Boris Yeltsin said Monday that police acted legally when they blocked a May Day march that turned into Moscow's bloodiest confrontation since the 1991 coup.

A hard-line leader blamed the government for the violence, and said protesters would march again Sunday, this time to the city center "no matter what." The government has not said whether it will block the march.

Saturday's street melee erupted during a march by Russian nationalists and pro-Communists. When police blocked marchers from leaving their authorized route, protesters hurled bricks, sticks and flag poles at police, who fought back with truncheons, shields and water

The Interior Ministry said 205 police were injured, with 27 hospitalized, the Interfax news agency

Officials have estimated that at least 70 protesters were hurt. At least 20 people were arrested, fined and released, reports said.

Rally organizers said marchers were unarmed and had the right to rally anywhere they wanted. They said Yeltsin's side started the unrest as a pretext for a general crackdown.

Yeltsin's aides and police claimed some protesters had iron rods and marched head-on into police to provoke a fight that could be used against Yeltsin politically.

"I've seen film and it was dreadful," Yeltsin told residents in suburban Zelenograd, shown by Russian television. "The militia was acting clearly in accordance with instructions. ... They were acting clearly in accordance with the Russia's prosecutor has begun an investigation. Parliament speaker Khasbulatov announced a separate investigation to be headed by a hard-line parliament member.

The president's office said Yeltsin was considering a third investigation, Interfax reported.

Hundreds of anti-Yeltsin protesters rallied later Monday at the parliament building, the ITAR-Tass news agency reported.

Speakers called on protesters to maintain their vigil at the 19-story white marble building until

"We're going to fight, fight, fight!" declared a 43-year-old man who gave his name as Ivan Ivanov. "We will not allow ourselves to be shamed.'

Viktor Anpilov, a hard-line organizer, said protesters would march to the city center Sunday "no matter what," ITAR-Tass reported.

The most seriously hurt policeman from Saturday's march remained in extremely critical condition Monday, a spokeswoman for Clinical Hospital No. 1 said. The Interfax news agency said his skull had been broken and chest crushed between two trucks.

An insect epidemic due to the mild winter conditions is also expected this summer, Miner said.

Most insects and their egg sacks are usually killed by exposure. But Hatch said winter temperatures were fairly mild this year allowing a greater number of insects than usual to survive.

"We haven't see insect up-serge just yet, but as it continues to warm up, I'm sure we'll see a lot more activity," said Steve Eller, manager at Terminix pest control. Labow said the nights are still pretty cold so there have not been as many problems with mosquitos and other insects. Eller said it is normal to have an increase of pest activity this time of year because insects go into what is called "over winter" while it is cold.

'Over winter' is not a hibernation cycle, but it's similar," Eller said. "Insects will spend most, if not all, of their time living inside a wall or other warm protected place during the winter and they don't come out until spring."

Predacious insects such as wasps, mites and the white apple leaf hopper feed on the harmful insects that damage crops, Hatch said.

The areas in Utah County that will be effected by this program are the Sherwood Hills Racquetball Club and some areas in Provo Canyon, Burgess said.

The cereal leaf beetle is the main pest affecting field crops this year, Burgess said.

"Most pesticide spraying for field crops is done by the farmers, but we do occasionally have to help with Mormon cricket and grasshopper problems," Burgess said.

"There is always something to spray for," Burgess said. "If the spraying wasn't done there would be a huge problem and little if any

Special Olympic pre-games finish with flying colors

By VICTORIA PATTERSON Morning Editor

Participants showed enthusiasm and shed tears of joy Saturday during the final day of the preliminary games at Provo High School.

"They love Special Olympics because it makes them feel important to know they can do things like other people," said Christine Smith, a Utah Valley Community College student who works at Mesa Vista, a facility for mentally disabled adults.
Ward Johnson, habilitation

technician for Mesa Vista and a junior majoring in human biology and psychology from Costa Mesa, Calif., said mentally disabled adults pick up on things that others may not give them credit for and are a lot smarter than some people think.

Judge delays abortion

By ERNEST GEIGENMILLER Senior Reporter

Utah's 1993 abortion law, scheduled for implementation Monday, suffered a blow Friday when a judge ordered a 10-day stay on the new ruling.

The plaintiffs in the case made a last-ditch effort to persuade Judge Dee Benson that the law, requiring a 24-hour waiting period on abortion, is unconstitutional and unclear in its current form.

The plaintiffs, Utah Women's Clinic and Wasatch Women's Center, based their arguments on three reasons.

"The Casey case ruled that it (a In the next ten days the judge 24-hour waiting period) was not an will schedule hearings to look over three reasons.

Porter said they disagree with the criminal penalties associated with the new law. Doctors accused of violating the law would be subject to a third degree felony. In addition, the plaintiffs also want to change the law's language and clarify its procedures.

However, Depaulis said the law's language is really at the heart of this particular fight.

The plaintiffs' arguments claim that state publications on abortion procedures are outdated, said Mary Carlson, of Planned Parenthood. The plaintiffs also claim the material is inaccurate and biased.

Accounting firm avoids lawsuits

Ernst & Young reach settlement with Bush administration

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Overruling objections by its own regulators, the Bush administration agreed in its closing days to shield accounting giant Ernst & Young from lawsuits filed by officials of failed

As a result, future legal judgments against the company in those cases will be paid by taxpay-

The provision was tucked into a settlement in which Ernst & Young, while admitting no wrong-doing, agreed to pay the govern-ment $400 million to dispose of claims arising from its work for three dozen failed banks and savings and loans.

The arrangement was negotiated by the New York firm's attorney, Fred C. Fielding, who at the time was also working as an unpaid senior legal advisor to George Bush's re-election campaign.

The government hailed the Nov. 23 settlement as a "tremendous achievement" for taxpayers. But the announcement excluded mention of the indemnification clause, which was detailed on four pages in the middle of the 100-plus page document.

Some regulators told The Associated Press they feared the government had not adequately estimated the possible future cost to taxpavers.

The government and Fielding both stood behind the settlement in interviews. "We felt that the settlement was a good one for us, and we haven't seen anything to change that," said Resolution Trust Corp. spokesman Steve Katsanos. He said government negotiators had considered the legal exposure in advance but "I don't really know how precise they may have been." Despite the government's endorsement, sources told the AP that regulators at both the RTC and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. had objected to their superiors about the indemnification provision because many of the firm's clients remained under investiga-
